Subject: Windstorm requirements

Can you simplify the installation requirements for items such as windows and doors. Currently the average homeowner cannot find the requirements anywhere and are at the mercy of the windstorm inspector which causes projects to take longer and cost more money. There is nowhere to get definitive requirements.

Also, I'm sure that you hear this from everyone but as a retired person on a fixed income the price of a combination of windstorm and flood insurance is becoming too much to afford. I'm not a person that normally takes risks but myself and many other retirees need to consider dropping some types of insurance to survive.

Thanks for your time
